

Sogefi Engine Air filters: you can count on quality products

The air filter could be compared to the vehicle's lungs. It is designed to eliminate the dust contained in the ambient air taken in by the engine. Depending on their capacity, engines at full power can take in between 200 and 500m³ of air per hour. This air contains a varying amount of impurities depending on the environment, the weather conditions, the road surface, etc. If this dust is not filtered, it could cause premature wear of the engine.

Sogefi filters ensure the high level of performance required by increasing efficiency needs of modern engines.

Sogefi recommends replacement of the air filter at least once per year, preferably at the same time as the oil filter, because regular replacement of the air filter ensures: maintenance of vehicle performance and fuel economy, plus optimum engine output and a better protected and less polluting engine (and consequently a lower level of exhaust emissions to comply with anti-pollution regulations).

The Sogefi comprehensive range of quality air filters covers nearly all the vehicles on the road today and tomorrow, and it's available in the aftermarket with the well know brands: Purflux, FRAM® and CoopersFiaam.
